A Sacramento young man eloped with a woman 50 years of age, and the Stockton Mail, borrowing the idea of Byron, suggests that he would have done better had he taken two women of five and twenty.—Journal.

Byron borrowed the idea from Douglass Jerrold who said a woman should be like a bank note which being for 40 pounds could be changed for two twenties. When ever a man starts out to run his family on the Jerrold plan, his wife has every reason to feel badly broken up.

THE TAXPAYERS VS. BRAY

THE COMMISSIONER'S WRIT OF MANDATE PITCHED OUT OF COURT.

The Silver Party District Attorney Puts in a Blow for the People.

Yesterday the case involving the right of a County Commissioner to do road work for the county came up in the District Court in the case of Bray vs Ellis the County Auditor.

Bray through his attorneys Summerfield and Coffin asked that the Court issue a writ of mandate to compel the Auditor to pay a warrant of $30 to Bray for doing work on the road.

Judge Rising being incompetent to attend to business by reason of inebriation the Governor had requested Judge Cheney of Washoe to sit in his place. The attorneys for Bray in opening the case made the plea that the road work was a case of emergency and that in such a case the Commissioner was allowed to contract.

Summerfield held that it was not a contract because no specified amount was named.

"Do you mean to say that if you order a tailor to make a suit of clothes and no price is named that it is not a contract?" asked the Court.

A titter went round the room and Summerfield changed his line of argument.

McGowan when he got his inning disposed of the matter in short order.

He held that the clause relative to emergencies only related to furnishing supplies where no one else but a Commissioner had them to furnish. That in a case of road repairing the Commissioners might let the contract without a meeting, but not to a Commissioner, under any circumstances.

The law was plain and the punishment a fine and removal from office.

He then asked that the writ be denied, as aside from the fact that the claim of Bray was illegal, the attempt of his attorneys to ask for a writ of mandate could not be made until after the Commissioners had by a unanimous vote passed it over the Auditor's veto. The Board had declined to pass it after the Auditor's refusal, and it was therefore in the situation of a rejected bill.

The Court then said: "I do not desire to hear further argument on the subject. The law is very plain. It was the intention of the Legislature to prevent Commissioners—who handle county funds—from being interested in county contracts."

The Auditor clearly has the veto power over a bill and it is his duty to check any improper use of public funds. Custom and precedent cut no figure.

"The face of this petition does not show it to be a case where an action for mandamus could lie.

"The Court cannot compel an officer to do anything which the law does not require him to do.

"The petitioners are in no position to ask for a writ of mandate because the County Commissioners have not unanimously audited the bill as correct after the refusal of the Auditor to pay it.

"The petitioner can apply for relief in the Justice Court if he likes, but upon the showing made in this petition and the facts as presented, I should say that the Auditor has the right to refuse to pay any bill he deems illegal. The motion to dismiss the hearing is granted."

Our Chicago Correspondent.

The Carson APPEAL's world's fair correspondence, which is doubtless written by Sam Davis, is the most interesting yet printed.—Journal.

This is an error. The correspondence which is very clever and entertaining is from the pen of the man who furnished such graphic pen pictures of the big conventions at Chicago and Indianapolis and enabled the APPEAL to scoop all competitors in the furnishing of the news to the public. His letters will appear in these columns from time to time.

Heavily Ironed.

Great Falls, Mont., May 11.—William Matthews, the king and last of the cattle rustlers who, for a time in 1890 and 1891, defied the laws successfully in Wyoming, Idaho and Washington, was brought to this city heavily ironed by Deputy Sheriff Dwyer last night. He was captured in Choteau, where he was traveling under the name of Thomas Briggs.

The Telephone.

Hello, Bray.

Hello, APPEAL.

A—What do you think of county contracts now?

B—I don't understand it at all; my lawyers told me I had a dead thing, but it don't look that way now, does it?

A—Are you going into the Justice Court?

B—My lawyers want me to, but if they can't do any better than they did this morning I guess I can save money by letting go.

Hello, Oliver Roberts.

Hello, old boy, is that you?

A—Did you see anything handsomer in Chicago than you see in Carson?

O. R.—(Cough, cough), Louder.

A—Do Chicago ladies make any better appearance on the street than here?

O. R.—They ain't in it with Carson, but don't let my remarks get into any of those Chicago papers, as I want to keep solid with the fair sex in both towns.

Hello, Coffin.

Hello.

A—What do you think of the Tribune calling you a red rag?

C—The Tribune is always making those unauthorized breaks, and I never pick up the paper that I don't expect to see some loony remark. I don't like the color red used in connection with my name in any way, and he ought to know it. The News is my personal organ now, and I don't even advertise in the Tribune; it's a back number.

Body Found.

Sing sing, May 11.—The body of Frank Rohle, who with Thomas Pallister, escaped from the death-house in Sing Sing Prison April 20th, was found at 8:45 o'clock yesterday morning in the Hudson river, opposite Rockland, directly across the river from Sing Sing. The body was found by three fishermen. They towed the remains to the dock and immediately notified the prison officials.

State Detective Jackson and Principal Keeper Connaughton at once repaired to the spot and identified the body by means of a picture and the prison shoes, which the dead murderer wore. The body was very much decomposed.

Fisherman Cronk says that he thinks he saw another body further down the river, but did not get after it, as he had the body of Rohle in tow. Searching parties are now trying to find the body of Pallister in the river.

Sing Sing, May 11.—When the body had been washed it was found that Rohle had been shot in the right side of the head, and the supposition is that Pallister shot him. There is now some doubt as to whether Pallister was drowned.

A Nevada Girl's Break.

When blind Chin Choy, otherwise known as May Morris, a Chinese girl born in white Pine County in this Nevada, became a mother at the Home for the Adult Blind, Berkeley, the scandal was tremendous. She was unmarried and it was not known whether a good deacon, who used to take her to church, was responsible, or a blind inmate of the Home named Wade. Chin Choy said Wade and the trustees said it could not be the deacon. Anyhow, on Monday the trustees expelled Chin Choy and Wade from the institution, and, as the flirtations of the blind were a matter of notoriety in the neighborhood, it was decided to keep the sexes apart hereafter. The blind of opposite sexes will not hug each other at the Home any more.

Probably a Suicide.

Johnson Sides tells a Gazette reporter that an Indian from St. Clair, Churchill county, went over to the Pyramid Lake reservation and persuaded another buck's squaw to accompany him to his wickiup in Churchill. The deserted buck followed the couple and on Sunday was found hanging by the neck, dead, in a cabin at or near St. Clair. The Indians appear to believe that it was a case of suicide caused by mental agony from the conduct of the unfaithful squaw. The whites in that vicinity, however, are looking for the Lutheran buck but had not at last advices succeeded in finding him.

Commissioner Bray by this time must realize that there is not only law in Ormsby for Commissioners as well as other people, but that there is a District Attorney and Auditor on deck who do not fear to do their duty as the law provides.
